

Maybe a Ticket to Nowhere, But We'll See
the Planes Land

Hope is in the odd position of owning the largest and best airport in Arkansas but being without scheduled airline service. There is an obvious way to correct this and it lay the following proposition before Hope Chamber of Commerce:

Find out from Trans-Texas Airways the minimum daily ticket demand to put Hope on their schedule. If it may be no more than one ticket a day. If the demand isn't too steep the downtown businesses and industries might pre-arrange the cost. I figure it would be worth $100 to $200 a year to Hope Star just for the prestige of being in an airline-stop-town.

And of course there is the practical advantage of being able to board a plane here instead of shuttling by car to Texarkana or Shreveport and a faster schedule on airport which they would travel entirely by air instead of being stopped by rail to the nearest air stop.

Trans-Texas now is flying over us both ways between Texarkana and Hot Springs. Allowing 10 minutes for the Texarkana-Hope leg, their present schedule would set up the following service if we had a stop here:

East Bound: Leave Hope 9:40 a. m.; arrive Hot Springs 10:10; Little Rock 10:30; and Memphis 11:22 p. m. The night schedule would leave Hope at 8:50; arrive in Hot Springs 9:20; Little Rock 9:48; and Memphis 11:21.

West Bound: Leave Hope 9:17 a. m.; arrive Texarkana 9:27; Tyler 9:35; and Dallas 10:53. The night schedule: Leave Hope 8:37; arrive Texarkana 8:47; Tyler 9:35; and Dallas 10:13.

The schedule would permit a Hope passenger to fly to either Dallas or Memphis, spend all the afternoon there and then fly home again by early evening—plus the advantage to long-distance travelers of making direct connections with the four-engine planes. Trans-Texas also flies DC-3's having two engines.

The proposal I am outlining here isn't simple, but it's worth testing with the Trans-Texas people. Among other problems we'd have to wrestle with is the question of the city charging a landing fee, and the matter of replacing the electronic equipment which somebody in the federal government removed from the control tower when it became obvious that the field was going to be decided to the city.

As long as private business men are willing to underwrite a ticket guarantee to maintain service it seems to me the city could be persuaded to waive any landing charge against Trans-Texas.

And the necessary radio and weather equipment for the control tower can be had. Mountains of it are lying around as surplus.

What we need to do is find out Trans-Texas' price for daily landings here, and then, if it isn't too steep, get up our list of guarantors. If we can get over that hump the rest is a cinch.

Let's start now with the Trans-Texas contact.

$3.9 Million Available in Farm Loans

Approximately $3,900,000 is available from the Farmers Home Administration for adjustment type operating loans in Arkansas, according to W. M. Sparks, County FHA Supervisor for Hempstead County. These adjustment type loans can be made to eligible operators of family type farms. The main purpose of these loans is to enable farmers to make planned adjustments and improvements in their farm and home operations and increase their income.

Mr. Sparks states that these loans one seven years will enable farmers to overcome their present plight which has been brought on by the drought and the cost-price squeeze. Loans may be made to buy livestock, farm and home equipment, feed seed, lime, and fertilizer. Funds can also be included in the loan to refinance debts secured by liens on livestock and farm equipment.

The amount of the loan depends upon the need as determined by the farmer's plan of operation. Mr. Sparks says. The most a farmer can borrow at any one time is $7,000 and the total outstanding debt for these loans can not exceed $10,000. Applications for these adjustment type operating loans should be made by the Farmers Home Administration office located at the court house in Hope.

Do Folks Go to Hear Opera or Merely Go to See What the Other Patrons Wear?

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Please don't ask you didn't see me at the opening of the Metropolitan Opera this year.

Yes, I missed it. And I'm so sick about the whole business I can't hardly talk about it. I don't know how I'll recover my social position.

Anybody who isn't seen at the Met on opening night is definitely an outcast in this town for the rest of the season. Eating all the chlorophyll in the world won't help you. If your name comes up though why it should, heaven only knows — people say pityingly, "Oh, him! Isn't he the one we didn't even see at the Met?" And the rest is silence.

The truth is I had made careful plans for my appearance at the Met opening this year, because it

Kidnap Slayer's Confession Indicates He Had the Entire $600,000 at Time of Arrest

By CHARLES NETHAWAY
United Press Staff Correspondent
KANSAS CITY, Mo., (UP) — Carl Austin Hall's confession said today that he had the now missing $300,000 of the $600,000 Bobby Greenlease ransom with him, when he was seized by St. Louis police on Oct. 6.

Where the $300,000 went is the only mystery remaining in the infamous kidnap case. Hall and his mistress, Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady are now before a jury that is hearing the case and will decide whether they shall be executed for kidnapping and murdering the six-year-old boy.

They already have pleaded guilty. Hall's 37-page confession was read today and in it he said: "I am certain at the time of my arrest I had about $370,000 in the two suitcases and about $22,000 in my briefcase."

Hall caught a glimpse of one of the suitcases later in a St. Louis police station, but said he never did see the other one or the briefcase again.

"While in the station I was being removed to another room for an interview and as I passed a door I observed the corner of one of these suitcases and saw some money in it," he said.

"At the time of my arrest, I had been drinking, but definitely was not drunk or under the influence of narcotics and was aware of the incidents that transpired during my arrest."

Two of the bills from the missing $300,000 have turned up in Michigan and one in Indiana, but there is no sign where the rest went.

St. Louis police officials conducted a wholesale investigation of every officer connected with the case. Lt. Louis Shoulters, who arrested Hall, resigned from the department in anger because of the inquiry.

Hall's confession also disclosed that he toyed with the idea of demanding a $1,000,000 ransom but decided on $600,000 because $1,000,000 in small bills would be too heavy to carry.

He also revealed that he is a drug addict, in addition to being a heavy drinker.

As the confession was read, Bobby's wealthy, 71-year-old father, Robert C. Greenlease sat about eight feet behind the defendants. He looked straight at their backs and the muscles of his neck were taut, as though his teeth were clenched.

Hall said that he started plotting a kidnaping months ago, but up to April 24, 1953 — a month before he picked up Mrs. Heady in a St. Joseph's, Mo., bar — had not decided on a victim.

"I believed that kidnaping was the one crime I could commit once and obtain a large sum of money," he said. "However, up to April 24, 1953, I had not picked out any specific victim."

He did know that Bobby's father was an extremely wealthy man and in the middle of June — he was now living with Mrs. Heady in her home in St. Joseph — he decided on Bobby.

Million to Get Polio Vaccine

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
NEW YORK (AP) — A hope-laden polio vaccine will be given to probably one million school children in second grades only — beginning Feb. 8 in an effort to learn whether polio has been conquered.

Official details of a unique nationwide medical test were announced yesterday by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. The children will get three successive shots of a vaccine made of killed polio virus and triple-tested for safety.

The vaccine was developed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk of the University of Pittsburgh. It will be given to second graders in public, private and parochial schools in some 200 U. S. counties — none officially named as yet.

What happens to these youngsters during next summer's natural exposure to polio will tell whether the vaccine is a success.

Success will be assured if these youngsters have less paralytic polio, or none, compared with vaccinated children of the first through third grades in those same counties.

The answer won't be known until some time in 1955 when careful scientific checkups have been completed, said Basil O'Connor, foundation president.

If the vaccine does really protect, then large amounts could be made available for children of all ages in 1955, O'Connor said.

The counties and state for the tests, costing the foundation 7½ million dollars, are still being chosen.

Mother Kills Children, Tries Suicide

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Deputy Prosecutor Scott Campbell said this morning that a 30-year-old mother had admitted killing her two children and trying to take her own life.

Campbell said Mrs. Verna Lawrence Swafford confessed to the crime in a written statement, signed last night after officers questioned her at a hospital here.

Mrs. Swafford's children, Mike, 8, and Donna Ruth, 2, were found dead from injections of bichloride of mercury in the family's 3-room apartment here yesterday. Mrs. Swafford was sprawled on the kitchen floor, unconscious from an overdose of sleeping pills.

Prosecutor H. A. Tucker said last night that Mrs. Swafford was charged with two counts of first degree murder, which carry a possible death sentence.

Campbell quoted Mrs. Swafford's statement as saying she decided to kill her son three days ago because he suffered from muscular dystrophy, an incurable disease which invariably leads to death.

Campbell quoted the statement as saying: "I decided to kill the girl at the same time so she would not have to suffer and people would not be mean to her. They certainly have been mean to her in the past. Her brother was cruel. Babysitters were cruel to her, too. One of them blacked her eye."

HOT SPRINGS (AP) — A 36-year-old mother who fought for her life in a hospital here this morning will be charged with first degree murder in the deaths of her two children.

Prosecuting Attorney H. A. Tucker said last night that the first degree charges, which carry a possible death penalty, will be filed against Mrs. Verna Lawrence Swafford if she recovers from an overdose of sleeping pills.

Mrs. Swafford's two children, Mike, 8, and Donna Ruth, 2, were found dead in the family's tiny 3-room apartment here yesterday. Deputy Coroner Dr. Robert Lee said the children were killed by injections of bichloride of mercury.

Dr. Lee said Mrs. Swafford, who was found sprawled on the kitchen floor, left a suicide note in which she chronicled the death of her children. It said the woman, had planned to kill herself with an injection of the poison, but was overcome too quickly by the sleeping pills. A hypodermic syringe Continued on Page Three

Dean Reverses Stand on Neutrals

PANMUNJOM (AP) — U. S. envoy Arthur Dean told the Communists today the United States would be willing to invite neutral nations to the Korean peace conference under certain conditions — a sharp reversal of his earlier stand.

At the same time, Dean rejected as "totally unacceptable" a Communist proposal to hold the conference at Panmunjom with Russia, India, Burma, Indonesia and Pakistan attending as non-voting observers.

The U. N. delegate to preliminary peace talks told the Reds the United States would ask its allies to consider asking neutrals to the full-dress conference if:

FBI's Hoover Would Let Chips Fall Honestly

By LYLE C. WILSON
WASHINGTON (UP) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover will bow to the truth and let the chips fall where they may if he is summoned before congressional investigators of the Harry Dexter White case, the United Press was informed today.

WASHINGTON (INS) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover put in a surprise appearance behind closed doors today with the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee.

Hoover was whisked into the subcommittee room while the Senate probers were awaiting the arrival of Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr., for his testimony on the Harry Dexter White spy case.

As of now, there is no certainty that the FBI director will be called. Chairman William E. Jenner (R-Ind.) of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee planned to discuss the matter with Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr. today.

The nature of Brownell's testimony before the subcommittee attempted at 3:30 p. m. EST could be the determining factor in whether direct testimony from Hoover will be sought. Some thought the attorney general would not in the record documentary evidence that the FBI director has witnessed in the government, but instead made plain his belief that White should go.

Up to the moment that former President Truman addressed the microphone in Kansas City last night, associates of Hoover felt that Hoover was being drawn closer and closer to an appearance before the Senate subcommittee. The former president had indicated he would discuss Hoover's attendance at a conference on White just before he was transferred from the treasury to the International Monetary Fund in 1946.

Mr. Truman's defenders already were on record with statements that Hoover had agreed with Associate Justice Tom C. Clark and the late Fred M. Vinson (then Attorney General and treasury secretary respectively) that White should be permitted to join the monetary fund so that the FBI could continue to shadow him — perhaps turn up some of his associates in what was believed to be an espionage net.

Widow Reports Losing $85,000

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Mrs. Ambie Hicks, an elderly widow who says she has carried about $85,000 around in a paper sack since 1945, told police she lost it in a drugstore.

Officers, skeptical at first, said yesterday they had confirmed her story.

Mrs. Hicks told reporters she had kept the $50 and $100 bills with her at all times because she doesn't trust banks. The money was left her by her late husband, she said.

Bulletin: Cherry Trying to Keep Open Hospital

FT. DRAGG, N. C. (AP) — The Army reported that a big C-119 Globemaster troop transport plane crashed on the Ft. Dragg reservation killing at least seven.

The crash occurred in an Army paracut drop zone on this big military reservation.

It happened about 10 p. m.

Cherry, Sens. McClellan and Fulbright and Congressman Norrell will discuss the hospital's future with Defense Secretary Wilson. The Army has ordered that the hospital be closed March 1 next, a move to cut expenses.

Cherry said the delegation would try to convince Wilson that it is not feasible to close the hospital for economic reasons in view of the investment in it.

CIO Approves No Raiding Deal With AFL

By GLENN ENGLE
CLEVELAND (AP) — The CIO was ready to approve a "no raiding" pact with the AFL today, but the chances of the agreement blossoming into any early AFL-CIO merger seemed dim.

Overwhelming approval by the CIO's 700 convention delegates of the "no raiding" plan was forecast. It would bind individual AFL and CIO unions subscribing to it to refrain from attempting toporous already-organized union members to switch from AFL to CIO, or vice versa.

While the agreement represents a forward step toward achieving an eventual AFL-CIO merger, top officials of both the AFL and CIO seemed doubtful that the desired union can be achieved any time soon.

In fact, CIO President Walter Reuther displayed some irritation yesterday in his keynote convention speech at recent remarks of AFL President George Meany, although Reuther said he had confidence in Meany and the AFL leadership.

Meany recently was quoted as saying the CIO was formed by AFL leaders to foster political ideas and throw their weight around in national politics.

Reuther, somewhat angrily, said Meany's memory "failed him badly" because the CIO was formed out of the AFL in 1935 to organize the mass production industries.

Reuther said the AFL was unwilling to undertake this job at the time.

Truman Brands Brownell Liar in Radio Talk

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON (UP) — The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee has asked Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr., to disclose when FBI files on three additional federal officials accused as Communist spies were sent to the White House. It was learned today.

Administration sources said Brownell also will produce long-secret documents to challenge former President Truman's version of the Harry Dexter White "spy" case. Brownell testifies this afternoon at a televised hearing of the Senate subcommittee.

Subcommittee Counsel Robert Morris revealed that Chairman William E. Jenner (R-Ind.) asked Brownell by letter to disclose when FBI and Justice Department files were sent to the White House and Treasury Department on Harold Glasser and V. Frank Coe.

Morris said the subcommittee also had "conversations" with the Justice Department about the case of Victor Perlo.

Cop-Killer Is Executed in Oklahoma

MCALISTER, Okla. (UP) — Cop-killer Carl Austin Dowell, whose 15 stunts of execution kept him in the Oklahoma death row longer than any other man in history, died in the electric chair today for the 1946 murder of Tulsa Detective Jerry S. Clair.

Dowell, pronounced dead at 12:14 a. m., proclaimed his innocence until the end and, in a final statement, accused Oklahoma Gov. Johnston Murray of letting him down.

"The governor had told me that they would never pull the switch as long as there was a doubt in his mind, and believe me, there was a doubt in his mind," Dowell told the newsmen and official witnesses shortly before he was strapped into the chair.

The electrocution brought to an end one of the most-discussed criminal cases in Oklahoma history. Dowell spent more than four years in death row while his case moved through appellate courts, including the U. S. Supreme Court.

The Oklahoma Pardon and Parole Board unanimously rejected Dowell's plea for additional clemency and Murray, who said earlier he would grant the prisoner more time if one of the five board members favored it, denied the 10th stay of execution a few hours before the end.

The Springfield, Mass., man was convicted in 1949 of shooting Sgt. Clair. Dowell was the 74th person to die in the Oklahoma electric chair, and the first since September, 1951.

State Sen. Kirksey Nix of McAlester acted as Dowell's attorney part of the time he prompted a legislative investigation of his case. The probe brought a committee report condemning certain court practices and a new law restricting the use of shackles on defendants during jury trials. Dowell was shackled during his trial.

The condemned man, in a dramatic final statement, praised Nix for his help and berated a Tulsa newspaper man who had worked feverishly on the case with police for seven years.

Dowell looked at Roy Hanna of the Tulsa Tribune and said, "there is a man that helped get me here."

Dowell had been convicted of rape in Massachusetts and armed robbery in California.

Court Asked to Halt Segregation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has been asked to strike down at once segregation of Negro and white pupils in public schools by order in violation of two amendments to the Constitution.

A brief filed yesterday by attorneys of Negro parents in four states — Kansas, South Carolina, Virginia and Delaware — declared the 14th Amendment had the broad purpose of "obliteration of race and color distinctions."

A brief in a case applying to the District of Columbia said segregation violates the Fifth Amendment, which says no one shall be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law.

The briefs were filed as a preliminary to reargument, scheduled to begin Dec. 1, on five segregation cases. The expectation is that any decision by the court will affect other states which require complete or partial segregation of the races in public schools.

Danes Dress Down U. S. Officer

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — U. S. Air Force Gen. Charles T. Myers, chief of American bases in Canada and Greenland, left Copenhagen today after reportedly getting a dressing down from Danish officials.

Informed sources said that the general, during three days of command, had been "called on the carpet" because "certain scientific investigations" had been carried out by the U. S. bases in Greenland without the required Danish permission.

The sources said that Gen. Myers admitted the activity had actually taken place and promised to see that no such thing happened in the future. This satisfied the Danes.

Metropolitan Opera Opens With Fanfare

By HENRIETTA LEITH Q

NEW YORK (AP) — The Metropolitan Opera celebrated its 70th anniversary last night with a gala performance, a higher than usual attendance and a big fanfare.

The new house arrangement was a success because it provided more seats and bigger returns in the box office, with seats selling for up to $30.

And the Metropolitan's long campaign to turn the opening night back into a cultural occasion, and to suppress the exhibitionists who got out of hand in some past years, appeared to be succeeding too.

Observers who had called last year's Met opening unsatisfactory well behaved found this one even more so.

Last year a lady appeared in trousers. This year there was not even one outlandish costume or undignified performance.

For the opening of the Met's 69th season with Denmark's Greenland department, had been "called on the carpet" because "certain scientific investigations" had been carried out by the U. S. bases in Greenland without the required Danish permission.

The sources said that Gen. Myers admitted the activity had actually taken place and promised to see that no such thing happened in the future. This satisfied the Danes.

Associated Press arts reporter W. G. Rogers called Miss de Los Angeles' performance "one of the most rewarding" of the evening, and described Rossi-Lemen's voice as a "sweet as it was rough, with as much purr as burr."

Rogers also praised Bjorling's Faust and the conducting of Pierre Monteux.

Father, Son Die After Quarrel

CHICAGO (AP) — A father and son died in shootings—termed murder and suicide by police—after they quarreled over the father's setting a day job for his 22-year-old son.

Police said the son, Louis Kosik, 22, after shooting his father, a widower, withdrew $3,200, all his savings, from a bank. Smith said Kosik incorporated a will in a 28-page note, leaving his money to his father.

Smith quoted Kosik's sister, Mary, 24, as saying that her brother and father quarreled for "some time" about the father's insistence that she and Louis be home at 9 p.m.

Season — there was no season in 1937 because of a fire in the opera house — Manager Rudolf Bing gave opera fans a brand-new version of the Gounod classic which opened the venerable opera house in 1933.

He even moved the time of the opera from the Middle Ages to the middle of the 19th century, with new costumes to match — including a Mephistopheles in tails.

Also new was Mephistopheles' voice, that of Nicola Rossi-Lemeni, Constantino — born, reared in Italy and appearing here for the first time.

Jussi Bjorling as Faure was in a role familiar to him, and Victoria de Los Angeles was Marguerite.

his two sisters. Smith said the note, found on the son's bed, also admitted killing the father and mentioned his quarrel with him about his staying out after 9 p.m. when he did not work. The son, who worked nights, said in the note he wanted to get a day job — but was opposed by his father.

with soda water. Everybody does things like that, and it is no longer pays off. I recall one year when an opera patron got his picture in all the papers because he refused to stand on his head. It was just his way of being different.

You attract attention now more by what you wear than by what you do.

So you can imagine what a blue funk I was in when word leaked out that Maggie McNellis was coming to the opening in a gown of white peau de soie embroidered with pearls and gold; Lady Mackins, a gown of lace in flaming scarlet, re-embroidered in chenille and trimmed with red velvet; and Mrs. Carl H. Pforzheimer, a robe de style of grape-purple silk velvet with train, pearls, diamonds, long white kid gloves, and white-criming box jacket.

Who would ever notice poor little me in my frayed old tux, decorated only with tulle-patched moth holes?

"Why don't you wear something new and dashingly different?" suggested my wife, Francis, who unfortunately is unable to attend Met openings, poor dear, because the doctors hurt her eyes and she is allergic to mink.

Why not I decided to wear a dazzling leopard skin toupée instead of a hat, a stuffed green bath towel twisted into a bun cloth instead of a suit, and instead of tawdry rubies or emeralds I decided to wear the famous Tiffany yellow diamond on my midriff, set off by a fine old baron's scented from Adam.

To can it all — as a conversation piece — I planned to wear as a watchdog an elderly carnival dwarf with a small white beard, who would cry out at intervals, "Ten o'clock and all is well... eleven o'clock, and things are even better."

Then everything began to go wrong. First, the leopard skin toupée wouldn't stay on, even with Scotch tape. Next the Tiffany peep declined to rent me the diamond, on a trumped up excuse that I had the wrong size navel. Finally, the dwarf refused to be worn as a watchdog unless I paid him overtime after midnight and let him pass out handbills advertising his STRETCHING HANDS OF TIME—Not restricted by orthodox clock faces, Georges Gehel has invented clock hands that extend and retract in telescopic fashion to indicate the correct time no matter the shape of the clock's face. The application of the French inventor's "timely" idea is evident in the large clock above. Gehel is shown in Paris, holding other clocks of his design.

Indians Charge

day of explanations" that one or more full compounds would have to be explained to in one day.

"This position was accepted by the KPA (North Korean) and CV (Communist China) P. commands, who agreed to explain to complete compounds every day," the Indian spokesman said.

Interviews were cancelled today by the Indian command when the Communists demanded they see North Korean prisoners whom Red political officers failed out but failed to explain to yesterday.

Only 227 OWs from that compound of about 500 failed explaining officers yesterday.

The explanations were previously slated for 10 days because of similar Communist demands for Chinese prisoners who left their compound but were not interviewed.

The Indian spokesman charged this Red tactic of attempting to see less than 500 prisoners a day has disrupted the stormy explanations.

"It is quite evident," he said, "that there is a slowdown in the process of individual explanations."

He said the Indian command has found no way to segregate small groups of prisoners as the Communists have demanded.

"Therefore," the spokesman said, "at present the CFI (Custodian Forces, India) is faced with the problem of finding the accommodations for the prisoners who have not been explained to as well as finding itself forced to guard them."

"This the CFI finds difficult to achieve."

The spokesman indicated in this statement that space limitations in the prisoner camp plus the size of the Indian guard force had made it impossible to get up compounds holding fewer than 500 prisoners.

The Communists had demanded segregation of interviewed prisoners after 201 Chinese, returned to their former compound with some 300 interviewed prisoners, refused to come out again.

The commission meeting was secret and it was not known immediately if the Communist delegates from Poland and Czechoslovakia made any reply to the Indian charge.

Londoners, who vividly remember last December's doubled death rate, are flooding newspaper offices and Parliament members with letters. They demand quick action to end pollution of the air before winter's fog turns it into throat-catching smog.

Last week the government announced that Britons with heart or lung diseases would be supplied with free smog masks through the National Health Service.

Medical men say last winter's smogs killed around 12,000 persons, most of them infants or old people.

The government is probing these deaths with "gravest urgency."

But some critics say the government's approach to smog has not been nearly urgent enough.

They say the government, after announcing it would set up an inquiry commission, took six months to name its members.

They accuse government inquirers of being notoriously slow in getting things done. Up to Sept. 30, they charge, the smog inquiry commission had held only one meeting.

Any attack on smog must be a slow—and costly—business. Atmospheric pollution in a big city comes from three main sources: factories, homes and vehicles.

London is trying to cut down chimney smoke in two ways.

1. It is encouraging factories and householders to install efficient heating systems using smokeless fuel. That's not easy in Britain, where a blazing coal fire is part of the household tradition.

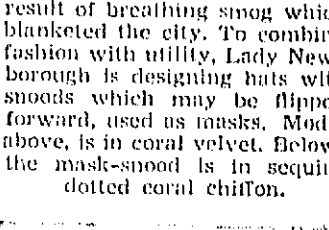

2. "Smokeless zones" are being set up in industrial and commercial areas. Inside these zones, no factory or office block is permitted to belch smoke. This plan has worked well in the provinces.

The vehicles problem is trickier. A vast upsurge in road traffic followed the war.

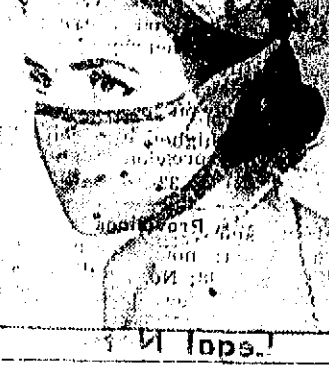

Londoners are not the only people who appointed him the American people. In backing away from this charge with the mealy-mouthed statement that he had no intention of impugning the loyalty of any high official of the prior administration, he lied to the American people again.

SMOG HELMETS — From costumer to Queen, Londoners all remember last winter's "Black Weekend," during which 4000 persons died as a result of breathing smog which blanketed the city. To combine fashion with utility, Lady Newborough is designing hats with smog helmets which may be flipped forward, used as masks. Londoners, who vividly remember last December's doubled death rate, are flooding newspaper offices and Parliament members with letters. They demand quick action to end pollution of the air before winter's fog turns it into throat-catching smog.

Last week the government announced that Britons with heart or lung diseases would be supplied with free smog masks through the National Health Service.

Medical men say last winter's smogs killed around 12,000 persons, most of them infants or old people.

The government is probing these deaths with "gravest urgency."

But some critics say the government's approach to smog has not been nearly urgent enough.

They say the government, after announcing it would set up an inquiry commission, took six months to name its members.

They accuse government inquirers of being notoriously slow in getting things done. Up to Sept. 30, they charge, the smog inquiry commission had held only one meeting.

filled with poison was found beneath Mrs. Swafford.

Dr. Lee said the children were put to sleep with ether before they received the fatal injections.

The Deputy Coroner made a note written by Mrs. Swafford. He quoted the note as saying that Mrs. Swafford was "tired of having my children pushed around."

Dr. Lee said the note told that Mrs. Swafford's son was suffering from muscular dystrophy, a disease that invariably leads to death; that her husband had left her, and that she and the children were without money to buy food.

Whereabouts of the husband was not known.

Deputy Coroner Lee also said the note listed the time of death for both children. It read:

"Mike died at 3:20 a. m. ... Donna Ruth died at 3:45 a. m. ... God alone knows when I will make it."

Mrs. Swafford resigned Sunday from the staff of St. Joseph's hospital where she now is being treated. She was working private duty.

The woman and her children came to Hot Springs about a month ago from Temperance, Mich.

West Rejects Soviet Proposals

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Western powers told Russia today that the Soviet price for entering into negotiations on German unification and Austrian independence is "totally unacceptable."

Notes were delivered by American, British, and French envoys in Moscow to the Soviet foreign office.

They replied to Russian demands put forward in a note of Nov. 3.

In their reply, the Western powers said the Russian demands in effect placed non-European problems ahead of even a study of urgent European issues and made "a defenseless Western Europe" part of the price for Soviet participation in a conference.

The Western powers said "the Soviet government must be well aware" that such demands "are totally unacceptable."

The Western nations have been negotiating with Moscow since last July, regarding a conference on Germany and Austria.

They consider that the note they delivered today probably closes the end of gasoline rationing in 1950 and it hasn't stopped yet. Exhaust fumes hang in narrow city streets and no one has yet thought of a way to shift them.

LONDON (AP)—Winter, the time of yellow, death-dealing smog, is coming.

you guessing.To listen to the Dodgers officials, they haven't any idea who is going to manage the National League champions in 1954. And they say no one with such guts on their faces that you get the idea they don't have a clue in the world about the problem.Walter O'Malley, president of club, bounced back into town yesterday from a two-week sojourn in Florida and told reporters candidately that they seemed to be worrying a lot more than he was.What's more, he said, the reporters seemed to know a lot more about what they liked to call "candidates.""It's no easy job just sit back let the newspapers do the speculation, and go along with the swim," he declared. "All I have to do is read all the papers every day like I did down in Venice and maybe they'll turn up the first man."O'Malley neatly parried all attempts to pry out a few possibilities for the job and also declined to be pinned down on when a choice would be announced.The job was left open when Charlie Dressen insisted upon something more than a one year contract. O'Malley said no and Dressen later stated for three

The answer that doesn't show up in the futures is what Coach Bowd Wyatt calls "scrambling."Webster defines the word
"scramble" and "to progress clumsily" and "to mix together confusedly."But, as applied to the 1953 Razorbacks, "scrambling" means fighting like you know what, it means doing the best they can with what they have and, sometimes, playing way over their heads.How different the Arkansas football record book would read if some Razorback teams of the past with so much more physical strength had possessed hearts as strong as those of the current Porkers.Even more amazing than some of the thinly manned Razorbacks' feats are the accomplishments of their do-everything boy, Lamar McClain.Despite the fact that he has less help than virtually all other backs in the conference, he is far and away the leader in total offense with nearly two-thirds of his team's entire yardage production.McClain has been a marked man every Saturday. Every opponent's defense has been engineered to do one thing — stop McClain. None has done a complete job of it yet, but those who have come nearest to achieving that goal are the ones who've defeated Arkansas.Another surprising factor is that the Porker tailback has escaped injuries and has been able to go virtually 60 minutes when Wyatt wanted him to do it. Having been a marked man and handling 232 of Arkansas' 440 offensive plays, not including punts, he has been taking a terrific physical beating.The Arkansas fan man, who also leads the Southwest in punting, is a pinch for all-conference's honors and in all probability will be ranked as the loop's most valuable player.Another very strong Arkansas candidate for the all-conference team is end Floyd Sagle. He's the conference's leading pass receiver and a steady blocker and defensive performer. Player and coach of all rival teams have lauded Sagle, and some Texas sports writers have hailed him as the finest all-around end in the league.You can't very well say football is over-emphasized at the University of Arkansas this year. The football team has been known variously as the "Ginny 15" and the "doomed 20" while the band has been the "marching 100" from the start.By The Associated Press

Duplications in U. S. Law Suits Blasted

By B. L. LETONE

WASHINGTON (AP) — House tax fraud investigators today urged "immediate and drastic remedies" for costly delays and duplication of effort in federal tax lawsuits.

They asserted that existing divided responsibility for tax cases between the Treasury and Justice departments puts "undue burdens" on taxpayers and should be revised to give the Internal Revenue Service greater authority.

In the second of a series of reports on a two-year investigation of the Internal Revenue Service, ways and means subcommittee said it found duplication of effort "in every activity" in which then Tax Division of the Justice Department participated.

"The consequent delays both prejudice the government's chances in litigation and impose undue burdens on the taxpayer," the report stated.

"The waste of manpower reduces the number of cases which the government can litigate."

"Effective coordination of tax policy is not being achieved."

The subcommittee named no names in its report, but said it had "outside activities" in connection with the hearings.

L. Lamar Caudle, former assistant attorney general in charge of the checking the law on a report that a tax collector had been indicted for fraud, resigned at the request of the committee. He had "outside activities" in connection with the hearings.

possible with his official duties.

The subcommittee recommended, in effect, that the Justice Department's role be cut down and that of the revenue service increased in fixing policy on prosecution of tax cases.

It recommended that the attorney general and secretary of the Treasury get together to end present duplications in the legal review of criminal prosecution and suits for tax refunds, appeals, and handling of offers to settle or compromise tax cases.

Under the existing setup, the chief counsel of the Internal Revenue Service is charged with processing and screening tax cases prepared by revenue agents.

These cases then go to the Justice Department for prosecution. The department's Tax Division takes jurisdiction over all cases as soon as they go to court.

The subcommittee, however, said that in criminal tax cases the Tax Division's role is limited to approving the proposed prosecution before referring it to a U. S. district attorney.

The report said the Justice Department "blocked" a proposal to eliminate processing of cases by the Tax Division and to have them forwarded directly from the revenue bureau to U. S. attorneys.

CIO Session Opened With GOP Attack

CLEVELAND (AP) — CIO President Walter Reuther attacked what he called the Eisenhower administration's "service to big business" as the CIO opened its national convention today.

In his annual report, Reuther said:

"It is an open secret in Washington that major drives will be under way to undermine much that remains of the New Deal and the Fair Deal."

He called on union members to rally behind the CIO in supporting candidates at all levels who can be depended upon to strive for CIO aims.

Although the report emphasized harmony within the CIO family, one important CIO leader was planning to snub the convention.

David J. McDonald, head of the powerful United Steelworkers, reportedly intended to stay away from most of the important sessions.

McDonald, who succeeded the late Philip Murray as head of the Steelworkers Union, kept himself scarce in the CIO's pre-convention corridors. Both his union and Reuther's auto workers group, with each, have constantly vied for the CIO leadership.

D. C. who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Cole, has returned from a weeks visit in Little Rock and Fayetteville.

Baptists Told That Beliefs Are Varied

By BEVERLY WOOD

HOT SPRINGS (AP) — The Rev. Lloyd A. Sparkman, who halted a move yesterday to remodel the Baptist State Convention headquarters in Little Rock, told the 100th annual convention today that "varieties of belief exist among Baptists."

"But there is a body of doctrines about which they are in practical agreement," said the convention president in a speech prepared for delivery to some 2,000 messengers.

The Pine Bluff minister, who yesterday forestalled a motion before the Executive Board to all funds collected in excess of 1953's $1,071,000 budget toward renovation of the Little Rock headquarters, then outlined the basic beliefs of convention Baptist churches.
